JAPAN WILL PARTICIPATE IN A DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE

Mention Made of Willingness to Participate in Conference Concerning Far Eastern Policy, in Note Received by the State Department.

Washington, July 14.—Japan has formed the United States that she will be "happy to participate in a disarmament conference at Washington," but failed to announce her willingness to participate in a conference concerning Far Eastern policy, it was announced at the state department today.

China has also informed the United States of her acceptance of the invitation extended by President Harding to attend the conference, it was announced. It was emphasized by officials that Japan had not expressed an unwillingness to participate in discussions of Far Eastern problems, but the fact remained that the acceptance applied only to a disarmament conference. Officials have by no means given up hopes that Japan will eventually agree to accept President Harding's invitation without reservation.

The acceptance of China has been anticipated from the start and whatever delay was attributed rather to difficulty of communication than to any reluctance on the part of the Chinese to accept.

Officials would not comment on the Japanese acceptance nor did they offer any explanation as to the possible reason for Japan failing to announce her willingness to enter a conference on far eastern policy, although they expressed confidence that Japan would be seated when the parity opened.

With Great Britain, France, Italy, and China having accepted unconditionally, and Japan having given at least a partial acceptance, officials today gave tentative consideration to a possible date for sending the formal invitation to the powers. It was pointed out that in the natural course of events a date for the conference would have to be agreed upon before the formal invitation could be extended and this question would involve some exchange between the various governments with a view to ascertaining the most convenient time. The Harding administration has already let it be known that Armistice Day, November 11, is regarded as peculiarly fitting for the conference, but there is no disposition on the part of this government to insist on this date. It is thought, however, that this date would allow a sufficient time for the powers to assemble a corps of experts and to determine upon the attitude their representatives should have.

In connection with suggestions in dispatches from abroad that Belgium and the Netherlands might ask for participation, it was pointed out that both these countries have important interests in the Far East and therefore might claim the right to participate on that ground. While it is not considered that either Belgium or the Netherlands has the same vital interests as the other powers from the point of view of disarmament, there is no disposition on the part of the United States to take a stand against the application of any power which has a legitimate interest in the Far East.

The motive of the United States in limiting the invitations to the allies and China, it was emphasized, was solely that of expediency, it being deemed unwise to make the conference so large as to become cumbersome.

BRITAIN DENIES WANTING MEETING

Foreign Office Announces She Is Willing To Treat On All Matters At Single Washington Conference And Curzon Is Already Busy Along That Line.

London, July 14.—The foreign office denied today that Great Britain is seeking to bring about two international conferences on the lines proposed by President Harding, one dealing with the Far East, the other with disarmament.

It had been persistently reported that Great Britain had made formal representations upon the subject, suggesting that the preliminary conference be held in London and that it deal only with Pacific problems. Foreign officials said that Great Britain was willing to treat upon all matters at a single conference in Washington and that Marquis Curzon, the foreign secretary, is already discussing procedure with George Harvey, the American ambassador.

After The Building Trust.

Washington, July 14.—Additional proceedings, both of a criminal and a civil nature, against building material industries suspected of violations of the anti-trust laws, are planned by the department of justice, Attorney-General Daugherty announced today after a conference with District Attorney Haywood of New York and District Attorney Cripe of Chicago.

NO DECISION ON BONUS LAW

Court of Appeals Adjourns to August 31 Without Passing on the New York State Bonus for Soldiers.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, N. Y., July 14.—The court of appeals reconvened here this morning and adjourned until August 31 without handing down a decision on the constitutionality of the soldier bonus law.

JAPAN CAREFULLY WEIGHS ANSWER

Delayed and Garbled Dispatch Which Gets by Censor Shows Mikado's Government to Be Far From Enthusiastic About Disarmament Conference.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Tokyo, July 12.—[Delayed in transmission]—Japan is moving slowly and with caution regarding President Harding's invitation to an international conference for discussion of disarmament and Far East questions.

Edward Bell, American charge d'affaires, held a conference of an hour today with Count Uchida, the Japanese foreign secretary, but the details of their conversation were not disclosed.

The newspapers Yomiuri and Asahi, in commenting upon President Harding's formal offer to Japan, said that officials would take their time in discussing it before making formal reply.

"Japan is going slowly," said the Yomiuri. "She wishes to know the scope of the conference and also the guarantees that would be expected."

The Asahi quoted an unnamed naval officer as saying: "Japan doubtless is ready to join such a group of powers, but not until there has been preliminary discussion."

The Yomiuri takes the attitude that China will be an important factor and believes that the government should understand China's part before she returns an answer to the invitation.

Leaders of the Sei Yukai, the dominant political party in Japan, warn the Japanese people against "madly praising the American president without first learning what his intentions really are."

Political leaders supporting the Hara administration declared that Japan must find out what benefits she would secure from the conference before she enters it.

Two American military and commercial agents who have been investigating conditions in the Far East republic (Siberia) arrived here today and reported to the American embassy.

The fact that the foregoing cablegram required more than 48 hours in transmission and that it was badly garbled indicated that Japan is exercising some degree of censorship upon dispatches referring to the proposed disarmament conference.

BASEBALL FIELD BEING LAID OUT

A baseball diamond is being laid out by William Downey, landscape gardener and architect, on the ground of the Kingston Fair Ground Association not far distant from the entrance to the grounds at Joy's Lane near the foot of North Front street. The baseball grounds will be of heart shape and the work will necessitate considerable filling and grading. It is hoped to have the baseball park finished so that games can be played there next year. It is planned to have a large grand stand and bleachers erected and the park fenced in.

STRUCK BY AUTO

Lad Boarding At Glenierie Suffers Brain Concussion.

As five year old George Ketsel, a boarder at the Pleasant Valley Inn Glenierie, was getting off a Kingston bus, Tuesday afternoon he was struck by a Hudson Super Six car owned and operated by Joseph Paccelli of 52 South Water street, Newburgh. The boy was picked up by Paccelli and brought to the office of Dr. Luther Emerick where it was found that he was suffering from a brain concussion, a few cuts and bruises on his head and legs. After being attended by the doctor, the boy was taken back to Pleasant Valley Inn by Police Captain A. W. Richter and Sergeant Nuremburg, of the state police. The boy was with his sister, Mrs. J. Hughes, whose husband is a police lieutenant in New York city. According to eye witnesses of the accident, no one was to blame, the boy starting across the road and not looking to see if the road was clear. Mr. Paccelli gave the police his address and license number and said he would see that the boy was well taken care of.—Saugerties Post.

Road Good to Phoenicia.

The state road which is being rebuilt from Phoenicia to the iron bridge at Mt. Tremper, is practically completed. There remains but a few feet to complete near the crusher plant and this will be completed in a few days. The road will then be in fine shape as far as Phoenicia. From there west the road is rough but in fair shape.

Belfast Fighting Goes On.

Belfast, July 14.—Efforts of British and Irish officials to enforce the armistice in the Belfast district have failed and a number of persons were wounded in an outbreak of violence early today. A girl was killed. Sniping continued throughout the greater part of the day. A grocery store was bombed.

OBREGON GIVES IN ON OIL TAX

Will Rescind Additional 25 Per Cent Export Tax Which Caused American Producers To Shut Down And Created Unemployment Crisis.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Galveston, Texas, July 14.—The Oregon government has capitulated in its recent order imposing an added 25 per cent export tax on crude oil, according to dispatches reaching here today from Mexico City. A presidential decree officially revoking the tax order is about to be issued.

Decision to rescind the order, which had caused foreign oil producers to lodge vigorous protests with their home governments and later caused the American producers to close down the great wells around Tampico, is reported to have been reached by Oregon in an all-night session with a committee from the chamber of deputies.

Obregon has received "semi-official assurance" from Washington that the American government will not impose an import duty on Mexican oil, according to advices from Mexico City.

The presidential proclamation rescinding the tax order will, it is understood, urge an immediate resumption of production in all fields to relieve the unemployment situation. Thousands of men were thrown out of work when the foreign producers decided to shut down rather than pay the 25 per cent tax, and the unemployment situation has become acute. This is particularly true of the Tampico district where all the big wells shut down.

President Obregon has invited the foreign producers to meet with him in conference and endeavor to work out an equitable plan, which will perpetuate good will and stimulate production, according to Mexico City advices.

TIGAR APPEALS HIS CONVICTION

Franklin A. Tigar, through his attorney, Chris J. Flanagan, has appealed to county court from the judgment of conviction of disorderly conduct in police court. Mr. Tigar, who is in the taxi business, was arrested recently by Special Officer Cullen, who is employed by the U. & D. railroad, on a charge of disorderly conduct at the Day Line pier at Kingston Point. The case came up for trial before Judge Schirick on July 7, and at the close of the evidence the court found Tigar guilty as charged and imposed a fine of $10, which was paid under protest. The trouble at Kingston Point arose over a trunk which Tigar had gone to the pier to get. He was told by Officer Cullen to keep away from the pile of Day Line baggage or he would be placed under arrest, but according to Officer Cullen, Tigar persisted in trying to obtain the trunk and was arrested.

Respectfully submitted, CHARLES S. ROGERS, Commissioner.

PROTEST OIL IMPORT TAX

Local Company Fears It Will Boast Price Of Oil And Affect Gas Rate— Prospect Of Lower Cost Would Vanish.

A strong protest was made in a letter sent by the Kingston Gas and Electric Co. to Washington, against the placing of an import tax on foreign crude petroleum.

Congress is asked to strike out the proposed new duty of twenty-five cents a barrel on fuel oil and of thirty-five cents a barrel on crude petroleum.

It is feared that the new tariff, if it is adopted, will knock out the prospect of cheaper illuminating gas in Kingston and other cities, officials say.

The gas is largely made out of crude petroleum, which is now lower in price.

The United States imported 108,000,000 barrels of petroleum in 1920. The production in this country was 447,000,000 barrels, but as the domestic consumption reached 538,000,000 barrels, it was necessary to import the rest.

It is said by the local Gas Company officials that their tax would amount to upwards of $4,000 to $5,000 for Kingston.

SODAS CHEAPER ELSEWHERE.

In Kingston War Prices Still Prevail.

The ten cent ice cream soda is coming back. Following close on the New York dealers who reduced the price when the people "struck" for lower sodas, the Albany dealers started a movement to bring down the price from 17 cents to 11 cents. Several of the larger dealers have reduced the price. Many of the dealers have charged as high as 22 cents, which according to authorities on the subject brings a profit of 300%. One large dealer who has reduced the price to eleven cents, said it cost about six cents for a soda with ice cream.

On the fifteen cent soda there is a tax of two cents which brings it to the consumer seventeen cents. On the ten cent soda the tax is but one cent additional.

Sodas in Kingston remain in the majority of cases at seventeen cents but in some places they cost even more.

Belfast Fighting Goes On.

Belfast, July 14.—Efforts of British and Irish officials to enforce the armistice in the Belfast district have failed and a number of persons were wounded in an outbreak of violence early today. A girl was killed. Sniping continued throughout the greater part of the day. A grocery store was bombed.

KINGSTON PUBLIC MARKET RULES

Each Seller Shall Have Allotted Space at 25 Cents per Day—Hawking and Combinations Prohibited.

The Staples lot on the westerly side of Field Court is being leveled and graded for the public market which will be opened on Tuesday next. The curb and sidewalk will be marked and numbered. It will be opened at 5 o'clock a. m., standard time, or 4 o'clock daylight saving time. It will close at 12 o'clock noon, standard time. It will be open each week day during the summer and such time thereafter as may be determined by the board of control and the commission. A large number of producers living within a dozen miles of the city have agreed to bring all their produce to the market. It is expected that many more producers will avail themselves of the opportunity. The charge for space for each vehicle will be only 25 cents each day.

With this market in operation, no street markets will be permitted. This will not prevent farmers and peddlers from peddling fruits, vegetables and farm produce upon the streets, but it will prevent farmers and peddlers from parking their vehicles upon the streets for the purpose of using the streets as a market and selling in front of other people's properties and business places. This practice has developed considerably in one or two parts of the city, showing the need of a public market.

The board of control, consisting of Mayor Canfield, Robert J. Harder, Louis W. Walker, William Schryver, Edward W. Hathaway and William P. Lehr, have adopted preliminary rules and regulations for the market which have been issued by William Doyle, the market master. The rules are as follows:

Pursuant to the powers conferred upon me by the public market ordinance of the city of Kingston, the following rules and regulations are hereby established for the operation of the Kingston public market, on Field Court in said city.

One—All persons, firms, corporations or associations accepting space in said public market shall only occupy such space and place in said public markets as may be assigned to them and for said time as may be designated by the commissioner of public markets.

Two—All persons, firms, corporations or associations accepting space in and operating in the aforesaid public market must have a signed permit from the commissioner, and the charge for space for each vehicle each day shall be 25 cents.

Three—All persons, firms, corporations or associations, operating in said public market must have the permit of the commissioner attached to his or their wagon or vehicle, and at all times exposed to view.

Four—The public market shall be operated each week day between the hours of 5 a. m. and 12 noon, standard time, during the summer, and on such days and during said hours other times as may be fixed by the commissioner.

Five—The selling, exchanging and transferring of permits for space in the said public market is strictly forbidden.

Six—The inspection of all merchandise, produce and food and the instruments used in the weighing or measuring thereof, are under the supervision and control of the officials of the city of Kingston, and the appointed for such purposes, and the rules, orders or directions issued by said officials must be complied with.

Seven—The buying or selling before or after market hours is prohibited.

Eight—The presence of dogs is prohibited.

Nine—The sale of unwholesome food is prohibited.

Ten—Disorderly conduct of any character and the use of profane language is prohibited.

Eleven—All combinations to govern prices is prohibited.

Twelve—Hawking in the market is prohibited.

Thirteen—Any person or persons violating any of these provisions shall have his or their permit revoked.

Fourteen—All ordinances of the common council applicable thereto and all regulations and orders of the board of market control and of the commissioner of public markets must be complied with.

START WILLITE ON THE STRAND

The work of laying Willite on the Strand was started this afternoon. The street department recently completed curbing one side of that street where the curb had never been laid before, and also relaying the curb on the opposite side of the street. The Willite will be laid from Hasbrouck avenue to the first U. & D. crossing, and from the last U. & D. crossing on the Strand to Abrynn street.

The Strand is one of the most heavily traveled streets in the city and is the main street leading through to Ponckhoekie and Kingston Point section of the city. Willite is already laid on North street from East Union street to Delaware avenue and through Delaware avenue to Kingston Point Park entrance.

RADICALS SPLIT BLUE LAW CAMP

Nashville Lawyer of Wealth, Representing, He Says, Millions, Is After Congress to Clamp Sunday Law Tight—Dr. Crafts Fears For Own Schemes and Throws Cold Water on Southerner's Plan.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, July 14.—Undaunted by the cold water dashed upon the flames of his "blue law" zeal by Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, director of the International Reform Bureau, Noah W. Cooper, wealthy attorney of Nashville, Tenn., swooped down upon congress today at the head of a band of enthusiastic crusaders and urged the prohibition of Sunday trains, mails and newspapers.

"Idealistic and impractical," was the reform bureau's description of Cooper's "blue law" scheme, but despite Dr. Crafts' criticism members of the senate and house were besieged with petitions pointing out that "Sabbath breaking is like blind old Samson pulling down the pillars of the temple to gain a temporary pleasure, but losing his life in the falling wreck and ruins."

Cooper, representing the Southern Methodist Sabbath-day saving crusade, arrived in Washington yesterday, having arranged his travelling so that he avoided riding the trains on Sunday.

News of his coming had preceded him, however, and Dr. Crafts, fearing that the diversion of the congressional mind to Cooper's proposals might prove disastrous to his own "blue law" legislative pets, promptly took exception to the invader's scheme, thereby dividing the "blue law" camp against itself.

Cooper's "blue law" recommendations were set forth in a bill introduced in the senate in February 1920 by Senator McKellar of Tennessee. The bill has slumbered peacefully ever since, but now Cooper, backed up, he says, by "10,000,000 professing Christians of the south" is urging that it be resurrected from its hiding place.

"This law," Cooper said today, "would exclude Sunday newspapers from the mails and interstate commerce, and would prohibit all ordinary secular work on Sunday by persons engaged in interstate commerce or in federal service excepting always emergency instances of charity and necessity. It would stop all interstate Sunday trains, mails and newspapers."

"Our army and navy now have orders and rules that ordinary work be stopped on Sunday. Why not extend these good rules and laws to our interstate commerce? There is absolutely no reason for not doing so except the vampire of evil, that deadens us to duty while sapping out the nation's life blood. What we ask will not lessen but double our Sunday joys."

WILL NOT CANCEL FOREIGN DEBT

Secretary Mellon Tells Senate Committee the Administration Will Not Even Consider the Matter.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, July 14.—Proposals for a cancellation of any part of the $11,000,000,000 foreign indebtedness to the United States will not be entertained or accepted by the administration, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon stated today before the senate finance committee.

Nor is it the intention of the treasury department to make any further advances of any of the foreign commitments bequeathed to it by the Wilson administration, Mellon explained.

Mellon also said the administration does not propose to furnish any more cash or credits to Liberia, a delegation from which country is now knocking at the doors of the treasury.

It was disclosed by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Wadsworth that as far back as February, 1920, when Senator Glass of Virginia was secretary of the treasury, the British chancellor of exchequer cabled a suggestion to the treasury department that it would be a "good thing all around" if there was a general cancellation of the foreign indebtedness.

Tried To End Life.

Despondent because of illness, Edward Upright, 57 years old, Wednesday morning unsuccessfully attempted suicide in a barn in the rear of his brother's home on the North Plank road, Newburgh. It is said by the local Gas Company officials that their tax would amount to upwards of $4,000 to $5,000 for Kingston.

SODAS CHEAPER ELSEWHERE

In Kingston War Prices Still Prevail.

The ten cent ice cream soda is coming back. Following close on the heels when the people "struck" for lower sodas, the Albany dealers started a movement to bring down the price from 17 cents to 13 cents. Several of the largest dealers have ordered the price. Many of the dealers have charged as high as 22 cents which according to authorities on the subject brings a profit of 200 per cent. One dealer who has reduced the price to 13 cents, said it cost about 10 cents for a soda with ice cream.

On the fifteen cent soda there is a tax of two cents which brings the cost to the consumer to 15 cents. On the ten cent soda the tax is but one cent additional.

OBREGON GIVES IN ON OIL TAX

Will Reveal Additional 25 Per Cent Export Tax Which Caused American Producers To Shut Down And Created Unemployment Crisis.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Galveston, Texas, July 14.—The Obregon government has capitulated in its recent order imposing an added 25 per cent export tax on crude oil, according to dispatches reaching here today from Mexico City. A presidential decree officially revoking the tax order is about to be issued.

Decision to rescind the order, which had caused foreign oil producers to lodge vigorous protests with their home governments and later caused the American producers to close down the great wells around Tampico, is reported to have been reached by Obregon in an all-night session with a committee from the chamber of deputies.

Obregon has received "semi-official assurances" from Washington that the American government will not impose an import duty on Mexican oil, according to advices from Mexico City.

The presidential proclamation rescinding the tax order will, it is understood, urge an immediate resumption of production in all fields to relieve the unemployment situation. Thousands of men were thrown out of work when the foreign producers decided to shut down rather than pay the 25 per cent tax, and the unemployment situation has become acute. This is particularly true of the Tampico district where all the big wells shut down.

President Obregon has invited the foreign producers to meet with him in conference and endeavor to work out an equitable plan which will perpetuate good will and stimulate production, according to Mexico City advices.

TIGAR APPEALS HIS CONVICTION

Franklin A. Tigar, through his attorney, Chris J. Flanagan, has appealed to county court from the judgment of conviction of disorderly conduct in police court. Mr. Tigar, who is in the taxi business, was arrested recently by Special Officer Cullen, who is employed by the U. & E. railroad, on a charge of disorderly conduct at the Day Line pier at Kingston Point. The case came up for a trial before Judge Schirrick on July 7, and at the close of the evidence the court found Tigar guilty as charged and imposed a fine of $10, which was paid under protest. The trouble at Kingston Point arose over a trunk which Tigar had gone to the pier to get. He was told by Officer Cullen to keep away from the pier of Day Line baggage and would be placed under arrest, but according to Officer Cullen, Tigar persisted in trying to obtain the trunk and was arrested.

Small Turkish detachments have been driven back.

The Greeks have advanced as far as the egress to the mountain passes in the Hian district.

Constantinople, July 14.—While the Greek advance has been general along the Anatolian battle front the Greek forces are not yet in contact with the principal Turkish defensive positions.

"We have withdrawn our outlying forces to the main lines of defence. Fighting has not yet started in the main defensive positions."

START WILLITE ON THE STRAND

The work of laying Willite on the Strand was started this afternoon.

The street department recently completed curbing one side of that street where the curb had never been laid before, and also relaying the curb on the other side of the street.

The Willite will be laid from Hudson street to the first R. & E. crossing, and from the first R. & E. crossing on the strand to Albany street.

The Strand is one of the most heavily traveled streets in the city and is the main street leading through to Poughkeepsie and Kingston Point section of the city. Willite is already laid on North street from East Union street to Delaware avenue and through Delaware avenue to Kingston Point Park entrance.

An Ambulance Calls Wednesday.

KINGSTON PUBLIC MARKET RULES

Each Seller Shall Have Allotted Space at 25 Cents per Day—Hawking and Combinations Prohibited.

The Staples lot on the westerly side of Field Court is being leveled and graded for the public market which will be opened on Tuesday next. The curb and sidewalk will be marked and numbered. It will be opened at 5 o'clock a. m., standard time, or 6 o'clock daylight saving time. It will close at 12 o'clock noon, standard time. It will be open each week day during the summer and such time thereafter as may be determined by the board of control and the commissioner. A large number of producers living within a dozen miles of the city have agreed to bring all their produce to the market. It is expected that many more producers will avail themselves of the opportunity. The charge for space for each vehicle will be only 25 cents each day.

With this market in operation, no street markets will be permitted. This will not prevent farmers and peddlers from peddling fruits, vegetables and farm produce upon the streets, but it will prevent farmers and peddlers from parking their vehicles upon the streets for the purpose of using the streets as a market and selling in front of other people's properties and business places. This practice has developed considerably in one or two parts of the city, showing the need of a public market.

The board of control, consisting of Mayor Canfield, Robert J. Harder, Louis W. Walker, William Schryver, Edward W. Hathaway and William P. Lehr, have adopted preliminary rules and regulations for the market which have been issued by William Morie, the market master. The rules are as follows:

Pursuant to the powers conferred upon me by the public market ordinance of the city of Kingston, the following rules and regulations are hereby established for the operation of the Kingston public market, on Field Court, in said city.

One—All persons, firms, corporations or associations accepting space in said public market shall only occupy such space and place in said public markets as may be assigned to them and for said time as may be designated by the commissioner of public markets.

Two—All persons, firms, corporations or associations accepting space in and operating in the aforesaid public market must have a signed permit from the commissioner, and the charge for space for each vehicle each day shall be 25 cents.

Three—All persons, firms, corporations or associations operating in said public market must have the permit of the commissioner attached to his or their wagon or vehicle, and at all times exposed to view.

Four—The public market shall be operated each week day between the hours of 5 a. m. and 12 noon, standard time, during the summer, and on such days and during said hours other times as may be fixed by the commissioner.

Five—The selling, exchanging and transferring of permits for space in the said public market is strictly forbidden.

Six—The inspection of all merchandise, produce and food and the instruments used in the weighing or measuring thereof, are under the supervision and control of the officials of the city of Kingston, duly appointed for such purpose and all rules, orders or directions issued by said officials must be complied with.

Seven—The buying or selling before or after market hours is prohibited.

Eight—The presence of dogs is prohibited.

Nine—The sale of unwholesome food is prohibited.

Ten—Disorderly conduct of any character and the use of profane language is prohibited.

Eleven—All combinations to govern prices is prohibited.

Twelve—Hawking in the market is prohibited.

Thirteen—Any person or persons violating any of these provisions shall have his or their permit revoked.

Fourteen—All ordinances of the common council applicable thereto and all regulations and orders of the board of market control and of the commissioner of public markets must be complied with.

RADICALS SPLIT BLUE LAW CAMP

Nashville Lawyer of Wealth, Representing, He Says, Millions, Is After Congress to Clamp Sunday Ltd. Tight—Dr. Crafts Fears For Own Scheme and Throws Cold Water on Southerner's Plan.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, July 14.—Undaunted by the cold water dashed upon the flames of his "blue law" zeal by Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, director of the International Reform Bureau, Noah W. Cooper, wealthy attorney of Nashville, Tenn., swooped down upon congress today at the head of a band of enthusiastic crusaders and urged the prohibition of Sunday trains, mails and newspapers.

"Idealistic and impractical," was the reform bureau's description of Cooper's "blue law" scheme, but despite Dr. Crafts' criticism members of the senate and house were besieged with petitions pointing out that "Sabbath breaking is like blind old Samson pulling down the pillars of the temple to gain a temporary pleasure, but losing his life in the falling wreck and ruins."

Cooper, representing the Southern Methodist Sabbath-day saving crusade, arrived in Washington yesterday, having arranged his traveling so that he avoided riding the trains on Sunday.

News of his coming had preceded him, however, and Dr. Crafts, fearing that the diversion of the congressional mind to Cooper's proposals might prove disastrous to his own "blue law" legislative pet, promptly took exception to the invader's scheme, thereby dividing the "blue law" camp against itself.

Cooper's "blue law" recommendations were set forth in a bill introduced in the senate in February 1920 by Senator McKellar of Tennessee. The bill has slumbered peacefully ever since, but now Cooper, backed up, he says, by "10,000,000 professing Christians of the south" is urging that it be resurrected from its hiding place.

"This law," Cooper said today, "would exclude Sunday newspapers from the mails and interstate commerce, and would prohibit all ordinary secular work on Sunday by persons engaged in interstate commerce or in federal service excepting always emergency instances of charity and necessity. It would stop all interstate Sunday trains, mails and newspapers."

"Our army and navy now have orders and rules that ordinary work be stopped on Sunday. Why not extend these good rules and laws to our interstate commerce? There is absolutely no reason for not doing so except the vampire of evil, that daemons us to duty while sapping out the nation's life blood. What we ask will not lessen but double our Sunday joys."

WILL NOT CANCEL FOREIGN DEBT

Secretary Mellon Tells Senate Committee the Administration Will Not Even Consider the Matter.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, July 14.—Proposals for a cancellation of any part of the $11,000,000,000 foreign indebtedness to the United States will not be entertained or accepted by the administration, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon stated today before the senate finance committee.

Nor is it the intention of the treasury department to make any further advances of any of the foreign commitments bequeathed to it by the Wilson administration, Mellon explained.

Mellon also said the administration does not propose to furnish any more cash or credits to Liberia, a delegation from which country is now knocking at the doors of the treasury.

It was disclosed by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Wadsworth that as far back as February, 1920, when Senator Glass of Virginia was secretary of the treasury, the British chancellor of exchequer called a suggestion to the treasury department that it would be a "good thing all around" if there was a general cancellation of the foreign indebtedness.

Mellon also said the administration does not propose to furnish any more cash or credits to Liberia, a delegation from which country is now knocking at the doors of the treasury.

LAUNDRY BUSINESS IS EXPLAINED

Arthur H. Wicks gave the vocational talk at the Rotary Club luncheon Wednesday, his subject being the laundry business, the butt of almost as many jokes as the plumbing trade. Mr. Wicks presented a clear and interesting account of the business generally as it is conducted today in Kingston and elsewhere and was the recipient of many congratulations on the instructive and interesting nature of his talk, which was substantially as follows:

In presenting the laundry business, I thought the best thing I could do is to clear up if possible many of the misunderstandings that the average person labors under and to give it credit where credit is due and to acknowledge its short comings when they exist. I doubt whether any industry has so steadily progressed and reached the position that the laundry business occupies today in the industrial world, that had so much inherited prejudice and willful foolish misrepresentation to contend with. Most all of us have had occasion to avail ourselves regularly or occasionally of the services of a laundry, but very few of us have had the opportunity or been sufficiently interested to familiarize ourselves with the inside of a laundry and very few of us realize the magnitude of the industry.

Unfortunately I am unable to quote from the industrial census of 1926 but I find that in 1926 laundries stood in tenth position in number of power plants in the United States engaged in any specific line. There being 5,183 it stood 14th as to the number of wage earners, there being 112,664 and 43rd as to product, it being $105,000,000. A census taken five years ago by one of the journals published in the interest of the industry showed investments at that time of about $150,000,000.

But I believe the industry has made its greatest strides within the past five years due to housekeeping conditions, domestic help, difficulties and higher earnings of the average family and that a conservative estimate of the capital invested, at the present time is $250,000,000; this includes the working plants and manufacturers of laundry machinery and supplies and doubtless the business done annually has kept pace with the increased amount of capital invested.

I will give just an item or so to show what the industry does—for example—I have been told that the White Star steamship Olympic when running regularly before the war in trans-Atlantic passenger service, she had her laundry work done on both ends of her run, had 18,000 soiled napkins, besides her table linen, sheets, pillow slips, towels, etc., and this is only one ship of one line and when you think of the number of ocean and coastwise passenger ships, to say nothing of freight carriers, and when you think of the number and size of the hotels in New York alone and their daily and nightly requirements of clean linen and that this same demand prevails for all hotels in the United States and then when you think of the clean linen required each night and day by the Pullman and other sleeping car service and diners you begin to comprehend what the laundry business means and yet we have only touched on three users, steamships, railroads and hotels. Hospitals and public institutions of all kinds make a great demand on the industry. But family service is after all the greatest in volume.

I cannot say what the laundries of twenty or thirty years ago may have been. I am told that they were conducted behind closed doors and doubtless the harsh conditions, like the first locomotive or steamboat to contend with. But just as the men conducting power laundries today are constantly striving and succeeding in elevating the industry to a higher plane and overcome the existing prejudices, so the manufacturers of laundry machinery have endeavored and succeeded in perfecting efficient machinery that would do the work required of them—keeping always in mind, gentleness of process.

Today the doors of my laundry and of all modern first class laundries stand open, visits of inspection are at all times invited and welcomed.

I have read that when the first sewing machine was invented it was looked upon as an evil and a menace that would never do the work as well as hand work and would also deprive all the women of the country engaged in plying the needle for their livelihood. We know the falsity of this fear and I presume the same feeling crept in the steam laundries were first established and a propaganda of prejudice and misrepresentation was put out at that time. My familiarity with the process of a steam laundry permits me to assert that work done by it receives gentler treatment than if done at home, and that goods sent to a laundry will last longer than if washed at home.

In a laundry goods are washed in smooth four revolving cylinders, called wheels which periodically mechanically reverse at which time the load breaks or opens up and allows the hot soapy water to pass through or percolate the fibre of the fabric carrying with it all soil or foreign matter lodged in it; this overcomes the functional wear of repeated rubbing up and down over the corrugated surface of the wash board used in the homes.

The electric washing machine now being put on the market for home use is a complete and complimentary adaptation of this much maligned laundry wash wheel—at home clothes are wrung out by main strength and the strain on the fibre of the fabric in the operation, in the laundry water is extracted by centrifugal force; the clothes lying perfectly dormant and not subjected to the slightest strain or friction; in the home that work such as table linen or bed linen is ironed by passing six or seven pounds of metal known as an iron, sixty or seventy times up and down and across the surface of the piece being finished, while in a laundry these articles are gently pressed through the heavily gassed steam heated chest cylinders of a flat work ironer commonly and erroneously known as a mangle and are not subjected to any wear or friction in the process. All this talk about harmful chemicals being used is absolutely baseless. It would not only be too expensive as it is entirely unnecessary, but it would be suicidal for a laundry with any regard for the permanency of its trade to attempt to use any harmful ingredient. Work done in the kind of laundries that I am referring to is done with soap and water, as the bills on my file will verify.

The Laundry Owners' National Association maintains at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research at Pittsburgh a Dr. H. G. Ellledge who devotes his entire time to solving the many troubles that confront the laundry owner. It is impossible for any manufacturer to put on the market a product for the use in the laundry that in any way will injure the clothing, as all products are analyzed at this institute. All damaged articles that come under the observation of a laundry owner if sent to Dr. Ellledge, is examined by him and is there determined why the damage occurred, whether it was in any way the fault of the laundry or the fault of the manufacturer.

Process of laundering, whether done at home or in a laundry, is bound to cause some wear. Clothes wear out through use. Every day that you wear a shirt or collar, every time you use a napkin or table cloth and every night you sleep between sheets or on a pillow slip you are wearing the fabric from which these goods are woven, and because a chain is not stronger than its weakest link, so the fibre of all materials is not stronger than its weakest thread and it will eventually break and cause a hole or fracture which on first impulse is attributed to the pitch forks with which the goods were handled in the laundry or the alleged powerful acids which the laundry is accused of having chained up in the secret dark room for the purpose of biting holes in its customers' linen. One of the customers of our laundry called my attention to the fact that the points of her husband's collars, where the collar meets in front under the chin, had given away. I explained to her that this was the wearing point of all collars and that every time a man turns his head his rough beard is in contact with that particular point of the collar. This had no effect on the good lady; she knew it was done by acids. When I asked her why this same acid had not taken a bite out of the side or back of the collar she refused to answer, as she probably thought it might incriminate her. Men are as equally inconsiderate and unreasonable in making allowance for ordinary wear by use.

A hotel man with whom we have a contract told me we were treating his linen rough because it was all wearing out. I had him refer to his records and found that he had not purchased any new linen for over a year and a half. I asked him if he ever had occasion to order a new suit or overcoat and why? When he told me because his old clothes had worn out, I asked him to what laundry he had been in the habit of sending his clothes. This, of course, was just to call his attention to the fact that he had not made allowance for every day wear to which all clothes are subjected. All wash goods are subjected to more or less wear in the ordinary process of laundering, whether done at home or in a laundry. The soles and heels of the uppers of your shoes wear out first because these are the wearing points. The heels and toes of your stockings, not the tops, require weekly darning because these are the wearing points, and when you discover these holes I doubt if you accuse your good wife of having caused them by the use of some acid when she laundered them the week before.

The human element, of course, enters into the handling of all goods coming into the laundry and can do some of the damages, but it is claimed by experts that only a small per cent of claim damages is directly due to the inefficiency or are in any way the fault of the laundry. Many of the materials put on the market are loosely woven and these sleazy fabrics are filled or sized by the manufacturer to add to their weight and appearance. This is particularly true of table linen. As Jones buys what looks like first class table cloth, but on its first contact with water this sizin is washed out and her fine table cloth then looks more like a beautiful piece of mosquito netting. Imperfect weaving or drop stitches are other sources of trouble. They do not show in the new goods but after laundering there appears small pin holes or apertures which are always blamed on the laundry. Then, too, a child draws its knife across or attempts to cut a piece of bread or cake on the table cloth. This cut does not show as it is only half through the goods, but in the process of laundering it is liable to give way and another damage claim is unjustly put up to the laundry. Table linen is also subject to unusual stains, such as might be caused by fruits, Worcestershire sauce, tomato catsup and other condiments that it is impossible to eradicate in a single washing and this immediately calls for the accusation that the work has not been properly done, that the goods have not been washed clean. Washing in a laundry is done by time allowance. All goods are washed long enough to remove the usual soil. Shortages in laundries are a source of annoyance to customers and annoyance and expense to laundry owners. In the necessary haste of sorting and packing laundry bundles for weekly delivery and sometimes through the carelessness of the boy or girl engaged in this work Mrs. Jones's table cloth gets in Mrs. Doe's bundle Mrs. Doe's eyeglass invariably falls her just at this time so that she does not report the extra table cloth, or if she does she is too busy to telephone or in any other way notify the laundry of the error, but if some little wash rag or half worn-out napkin chances to be missing from her bundle it is discovered at once and the telephone wire becomes immediately heated with her notice and complaint. If all customers had good eyesight and the time to report such errors all claims could be easily and readily adjusted.

In addition to all this claims made for such lost or strayed articles are generally grossly exaggerated as to condition and value and a standing joke among laundry owners that there has never been an old or worn or cheap article lost by a laundry—sometimes these stray pieces are recovered and a comparison then made of the condition and the quality, with the description given by the claimant, and the difference is so great that it makes one blush and hang his head in shame for the veracity of humanity. I want to say to you gentlemen that the laundry industry is a very important, very essential and a very well conducted industry in charge of very capable men, business men who are devoting lots of thought to their work. During the war the U. S. government recognized this and classified it as a public utility and gave it unrestricted use of coal and labor. So when you read some silly newspaper joke or hear some trifling and slandering remark made about the laundry industry that it is idle, ignorant and baseless. The laundry industry is more signed against than signing.

Almost all towns are infested with Chinese laundries which are locked upon by regular laundrymen the same as lunch wagons are locked upon by hotel or first class restaurant keepers. They seem to be good enough for some people, for some people are not very particular as to what they eat or wear, and while not anyone of them does enough business to materially affect the regular laundry trade, the aggregate business done by several of them does make serious inroads into business that should properly go to an American laundry conducted by Americans and that gives employment to American men and women, that patronize the merchants of and pay taxes in their respective cities. A Chinaman is declared to be an undesirable citizen by our government and yet he is accepted to the extent of patronage by many of our people. This is probably due to thoughtlessness.

Laundries like other industries have been compelled to revise prices upward in the past few years and they like others have been accused of profiteering. Taking a collar for instance the current price is 4c for laundering as compared to 2½c in pre-war times. We offer no apology for this advance. Beginning with our coal bin and going right through our costs of payroll, supplies and maintenance we find an advance to us of from 100 to 400 per cent. Incidentally I might mention that the collar from the time it is called for until it is delivered passes through 22 different operations in the process of laundering and that the cost of collection and delivery of every bundle is figured at 15c per bundle, so it can be seen that even at 4 cents per collar the laundry is not getting over rich on the 3 collars a week customer. I have been trying to bring this paper to a close, but because the industry of which I am speaking is so little understood and generally misrepresented and is so worth of championship that I have found it difficult to stop putting down thoughts that come upon me and that I feel should be expressed. The only way I can conclude is to chop it off unceremoniously and suddenly as I do now after thanking you for the courtesy of your attention.

TARIFF ON OIL

Congress Should Have a Thought For the Consumer.

Just as the consuming public is about to realize a little relief from the high prices of gas oil, a petroleum distillate largely used in the manufacture of artificial gas, along comes a tariff-tinkering proposition at Washington which threatens to destroy that relief.

The ways and means committee of the House of Representatives on June 29 decided to place a tariff on crude petroleum brought into this country at the rate of thirty-five cents per barrel and on fuel oil at the rate of twenty-five cents per barrel.

The significance of this proposition is that while it will "protect" oil producers within the borders of our land from outside competition in oil, it will also have the effect of stiffening prices for American crude and fuel oils.

Why not allow the public to enjoy the respite from high prices for awhile?

It is not asking too much, even from strictly consistent advocates of high tariff schedules, to thus plead for the consumer's economy. The "market" may need protection but so do the public who use the product.

Locally speaking, the quarter million people in Poughkeepsie, Hudson, Kingston, Newburgh and contiguous territory who are served by the gas-making public utility corporation known as the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company and Kingston Gas & Electric Company will be taxed indirectly for the benefit of the American oil men; the government will collect the customs duty of thirty-five or twenty-five cents on every forty-two gallons of the oil imported under the new tariff schedule, but the consumer will have to pay it eventually in the higher price he will be charged by the home producers of oil.

It works that way, and only that way.

At the present moment Poughkeepsie is promised a reduction in the price of manufactured gas—promised us because the price of the gas oil used here has fallen nearly one-half in the open market lately, leading the local corporation to order giant tanks to hold the reduced priced oil, the difference in cost production to be passed on to the consumer.

Congress should think occasionally about the tax-burdened, price-driven citizen who has to pay the bills.—Poughkeepsie Star.

For Kingston this tariff would mean from $4,000 to $5,000 per year increased cost.

THE MOST EQUITABLE FORM OF RATE

In Gloversville, N. Y., the Chamber of Commerce, on behalf of the consumers, appointed a special committee consisting of five members to investigate and report on the Service Charge of 50c per month introduced by the local company. It was put up to this committee to determine whether the service charge or a minimum charge would be more equitable.

Their report reads:

"After an analysis of the figures of the company we can see no grounds to recommend opposition to the proposed manner of increasing consumer gas costs and after careful study believe the proposed Service Charge to be more equitable to all consumers than either a minimum rate or an increased rate to $1.80 per 1,000 cubic feet. Under the proposed service charge your committee believes that every consumer of gas pays his equalized costs of the service and neither the small consumer nor the large consumer is compelled to carry a load that should be shared by both."

This conclusion is of importance! It means, as applied to Kingston, the company can maintain lower rates for gas with the service charge than without. This is of great advantage to the City as was pointed out by the action taken by the Merchants' Association of New York City an account of which was recently published by us.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the "Service Charge" is now in use in at least forty states in the Union and has been passed on by most of the Utility Commissions as the best form of rate.

EATER COAT FOR SPORTS

The sweater coat of novel weave and much favor for cool days at seashore or for sport occasions.

W SPORT HATS ARE CHIC

ny of the Season's Modes Designed to Be in Keeping With Attractive Sweaters.

This is going to be a sweater season, and perhaps it was with this idea in mind that many of the new hats have been designed.

For sport silks, stitched taffetas, or embroidered fabrics, crisp or dainty all conspire to make smart hats for outdoor occasions.

For general wear there's a white hat that will give wonderful value for it will combine with any dress costume.

A white faille silk hat that gained distinction through black silk embroidery was one of those pull-out affairs, tied up in the front and back, and only pointed at the sides.

There was a soft crown unusually coming, but it was the simple design of black silk that traced itself over the hat that was so original.

is hat is ideal to wear with any color silk sweater or sport dress.

A hat that emphasizes the charming loveliness of a "beige fillet" is noted from sky-blue taffeta, deftly bordered in silk a trifle darker in shade. A rather large shape, with upgathered crown and drooping veil, is faced with pale-pink straw.

A slim pink ribbon is drawn about crown and tied in the back with streamers dripping off the edge, at the thing to wear with a fresh green or pink frock or a pink silk pon sweater.

Crisp yellow organdie formed one hat designed to accompany a low-and-white crepe silk sport frock. It was a medium-sized model with a brim that drooped becomingly to a soft crown.

There was a tiny-futed full that ordered the brim, and a great sash of the material that was drawn about crown and finished in a pretty ruche effect at the front.

Stitched silk hats are soft and may be adjusted to any becoming shape. How of the material at the front is only trimming except for the rows of tailored stitching. They are offered in all the wanted sport shades.

White cottons or linen clothes may be soaked to advantage all day or night, writes a correspondent. It is a mistake to think that woolens cannot be soaked at all. Soak them in a weak solution of ammonia in very warm water for half an hour. This will not injure the woolen and will make it easier to wash.

All clothes should be turned inside out in washing. Wash the outside first, then turn the clothes, wash on the inside and leave turned this way for drying. If you use a washing machine, a good plan is to snap the clothes right side out and then turn them as they are put into the washing machine.

All soap chips or soap powders should be thoroughly dissolved in boiling water before being used in the laundry. Sometimes washing preparations that are harmless if used in this way eat the clothes if allowed to rest in undissolved bits on the material.

Millinery Fashions. The prediction that big hats would be the mode of the season seems in a far way of being realized, despite the fact some women cling to the smaller shapes. Some of the hats now to be seen on Fifth avenue, New York, suggest a comparison to a catwheel. Last year it was the large straw hat, but this year the styles are to be far more general and shapes are to be seen in fur, milanes and tulle. The light shades lend themselves to glycerin oil and flower trims.

Untrimmed. It is well to remember when you buy your new liner that the plainest is the better it will set off your gown. Too much ornamented undergarments have been the ruin of more than one good-looking frock.

What Became of Them? A French engineer claims to have discovered evidence that a great river has flowed northward across the Sahara desert into the Mediterranean and was filled with prosperous communities.

SAMSONVILLE

Samsonville, July 14.—The Ep-

Five persons were killed and more than a score injured when a giant Martin bombing plane, taking off from a flying field at Moundsville, W. V., plunged into a line of automobiles. When the plane struck the automobiles one of the gasoline tanks exploded, spreading fire over the cars and destroyed sixteen of them. Most of the dead and injured were seated in the burning machines. Lieutenant Dunton explained afterward that one of the light motors stopped, causing the plane to swerve, right after the take-off, and the control levers refused to work properly, making it impossible to swing clear of the crowd. The above photograph was taken just as the plane's gasoline tank exploded, immediately after it hit the row of autos.

LAUNDRY BUSINESS IS EXPLAINED

Arthur H. Wicks gave the vocational talk at the Rotary Club luncheon Wednesday, his subject being the laundry business, the butt of almost as many jokes as the plumbing trade. Mr. Wicks presented a clear and interesting account of the business generally as it is conducted today in Kingston and elsewhere and was the recipient of many congratulations on the instructive and interesting nature of his talk, which was substantially as follows:

In presenting the laundry business I thought the first thing I could do is to clear up the possible many of the misunderstandings that the average person labors under and to give it credit where credit is due and to acknowledge its short comings when they exist. I doubt whether any industry has so steadily progressed and reached the position that the laundry business occupies today in the industrial world, that had so many inherited prejudices and wilful foolish misrepresentation to contend with. Most of us have had occasion to avail ourselves regularly or occasionally of the services of a laundry, but very few of us have had the opportunity to learn sufficiently interested to familiarize ourselves with the inside of a laundry and very few of us realize the magnitude of the industry.

Unfortunately I am unable to quote from the industrial census of 1920 but I find that in 1910 laundries stood in tenth position in number of power plants in the United States engaged in any specific line. There being 5,135 it stood 14th as to the number of wage earners; there being 112,664 and 43rd as to product it was valued at $105,000,000. A census taken five years ago by one of the journals published in the interest of the industry showed investments at that time of about $150,000,000.

But I believe the industry has made its greatest strides within the past five years due to housekeeping conditions, domestic help difficulties and higher earnings of the average family and that a conservative estimate of the capital invested at the present time is $250,000,000; this includes the working plants and manufacturers of laundry machinery and supplies and doubtless the business done annually has kept pace with the increased amount of capital invested.

I will give just an item or so to show what the industry does—for example—I have been told that the White Star steamship Olympic when running regularly before the war in trans-Atlantic passenger service she had her laundry work done on both ends of her run; had 18,000 soiled napkins, besides her table linen, sheets, pillow slips, towels, etc., and this is only one ship of one line and when you think of the number of ocean and coastwise passenger ships, to say nothing of freight carriers, and when you think of the number and size of the hotels in New York alone and their daily and nightly requirements of clean linen and that this same demand prevails for all hotels in the United States and then when you think of the clean linen required each night and day by the Pullman and other sleeping car service and diners you begin to comprehend what the laundry business means and yet we have only touched on three lines, steamships, railroads and hotels. Hospitals and public institutions of all kinds make a great demand on the industry. But family service is after all the greatest in volume.

I cannot say what the laundries of twenty or thirty years ago may have been. I am told that they were conducted behind closed doors and doubtless they had crude machinery like the first locomotive or steamboat to coast with. But just as the men conducting power laundries today are constantly striving and succeeding in elevating the industry to a higher plane and overcome the existing prejudices, so the manufacturers of laundry machinery have endeavored and succeeded in perfecting efficient machinery that would do the work required of them—keeping always in mind, gentleness of process.

Today the doors of my laundry and of all modern first class laundries stand open, visits of inspection are at all times invited and welcomed. I have read that when the first sewing machine was invented it was looked upon as an evil and a menace that would never do the work as well as hand work and would also deprive all the women of the country engaged in plying the needle for their livelihood. We know the falsity of this fear and I presume the same feeling crept in the steam laundries were first established and a propaganda of prejudice and misrepresentation began at that time. My familiarity with the process of a steam laundry permits me to assert that work done by it receives greater treatment than if done at home, and that goods sent to a laundry will last longer than if washed at home.

In a laundry goods are washed in smooth four revolving cylinders, called wheels which periodically mechanically reverse at which time the load breaks or opens up and allows the hot soapy water to pass through or percolate the fibre of the fabric carried with it all soil or foreign matter lodged in it; this overcomes the functional wear of repeated rubbing up and down over the corrugated surface of the wash board used in the home.

The electric washing machine now being put on the market for home use is a complete and comprehensive adaptation of this much maligned laundry wash wheel—at home clothes are wrung out by main strength and the fibre strained to its utmost limit in the operation. In the laundry water is extracted by centrifugal force; the clothes lying perfectly dormant and are not subjected to the slightest strain or friction; in the home that work such as table linen or bed linen is treated by pumping six or seven pounds of water known as an iron, sixty or seventy times up and down and across the surface of the piece being washed, while in a laundry these articles are evenly pressed through the heavily padded steam heated rollers or cylinders of a flat work press commonly and erroneously known as a mangle, and are subjected to any wear or friction in the process. All this talk about harmful chemicals being used is absolutely baseless. It would not only be too expensive as it is entirely unnecessary, but it would be suicidal for a laundry with any regard for the permanency of its trade to attempt to use any harmful ingredient. Work done in the kind of laundries that I am referring to is done with soap and water, as the bills on my file will verify.

The Laundry Owners' National Association maintains at Mellen Institute of Industrial Research at Pittsburgh a Dr. H. G. Ellledge who devotes his entire time to solving the many troubles that confront the laundry owner. It is impossible for any manufacturer to put on the market a product for the use in the laundry that in any way will injure the clothing, as all products are analyzed at this institute. All damaged articles that come under the observation of a laundry owner if sent to Dr. Ellledge, is examined by him and is there determined why the damage occurred, whether it was in any way the fault of the laundry or the fault of the manufacturer.

Process of laundering, whether done at home or in a laundry, is bound to cause some wear. Clothes wear out through use. Every day that you wear a shirt or collar, every time you use a napkin or table cloth and every night you sleep between sheets or on a pillow slip you are wearing the fabric from which these goods are woven, and because a chain is not stronger than its weakest link, so the fibre of all materials is not stronger than its weakest thread and it will eventually break and cause a hole or fracture which on first impulse is attributed to the pitch fork with which the goods were handled in the laundry or the alleged powerful acids which the laundry is accused of having chained up in the secret dark room for the purpose of biting holes in its customers' linen. One of the customers of our laundry called my attention to the fact that the points of her husband's collar, where the collar meets in front under the chin, had given way. I explained to her that this was the wearing point of all collars and that every time a man turns his head his rough beard is in contact with that particular point of the collar. This had no effect on the good lady; she knew it was done by acids. When I asked her why this same acid had not taken a bite out of the side or back of the collar she refused to answer, as she probably thought it might incriminate her. Men are as equally inconsiderate and unreasonable in making allowance for ordinary wear by use.

A hotel man with whom we have a contract told me we were treating his linen rough because it was all wearing out. I had him refer to his records and found that he had not purchased any new linen for over a year and a half. I asked him if he ever had occasion to order a new suit or overcoat and why? When he told me because his old clothes had worn out, I asked him to what laundry he had been in the habit of sending his clothes. This, of course, was just to call his attention to the fact that he had not made allowance for every day wear to which all clothes are subjected. All wash goods are subjected to more or less wear in the ordinary process of laundering, whether done at home or in a laundry. The soles and heels of the uppers of your shoes wear out first because these are the wearing points. The heels and toes of your stockings, not the tops, require weekly darning because these are the wearing points, and when you discover these holes I doubt if you accuse your good wife of having caused them by the use of some acid when she laundered them the week before.

The human element, of course, enters into the handling of all goods coming into the laundry, and can do as much damage as the machinery. A small per cent of claim damages is directly due to the inefficiency or carelessness of the laundry. Many of the materials put on the market are loosely woven and these heavy fabrics are filled or sized by the manufacturer to add to their weight and appearance. This is particularly true of table linen. Mrs. Jones buys what looks like first class table cloth, but on its first contact with water this sizable is washed out and her fine table cloth then looks more like a beautiful piece of mosquito netting. Imperfect weaving or drop stitches are other sources of trouble. They do not show in the new goods but after laundering there appears small pin holes or apertures which are always blamed on the laundry. Then, too, a child draws its knife across or attempts to cut a piece of bread or cake on the table cloth. This cut does not show as it is only half through the goods, but in the process of laundering it is liable to give way and another damage claim is unjustly put up to the laundry. Table linen is also subject to unusual stains, such as might be caused by fruits, Worcestershire sauce, tomato catsup and other condiments that it is impossible to eradicate in a single washing and this immediately calls for the accusation that the work has not been properly done, that the goods have not been washed clean. Washing in a laundry is done by time allowance. All goods are washed long enough to remove the usual soil. Shortages in laundries are a source of annoyance to customers and annoyance and expense to laundry owners. In the necessary haste of sorting and packing laundry bundles for weekly delivery and sometimes through the carelessness of the boy or girl engaged in this work Mrs. Jones's table cloth ends in Mrs. Doe's bundle. Mrs. Doe's evening invariably finds her just at this time so that she does not report the extra table cloth, or if she does she is too busy to telephone or in any other way to notify the laundry of the error. But if some little wash rag or half worn out napkin happens to be missing from her bundle it is discarded at once and the telephone calls Newbern immediately located with her notice and complaint. If all customers had good records and the time to report such errors all claims could be easily and promptly adjusted.

In addition to this claim made for such loss or strayed articles are generally grossly exaggerated as to number and value. It is a wonder the price sensitive laundry owners that there has never been an old or worn or cheap article lost by a laundry—sometimes these stray pieces are recovered and a comparison then made of the condition and the quality, with the description given by the claimant, and the difference is so great that it makes one blush and hang his head in shame for the veracity of humanity. I want to say to you gentlemen that the laundry industry is a very important, very essential and a very well conducted industry in charge of very capable men, business men who are devoting lots of thought to their work. During the war the U. S. government recognized this and classified it as a public utility and gave it unrestricted use of coal and labor. So when you read some silly newspaper joke or hear some trifling and slighting remark made about the laundry industry, you can safely make up your mind that it is idle, ignorant and baseless. The laundry industry is more sinners against than sinning.

Almost all towns are afflicted with Chinese laundries which are looked upon by regular laundries as the same as lanch wagons are looked upon by hotel or first class restaurant keepers. They seem to be good enough for some people, for some people are not very particular as to what they eat or wear, and while not anyone of them does enough business to materially affect the regular laundry trade, the aggregate business done by several of them does make serious inroads into business that should properly go to an American laundry conducted by Americans and that gives employment to American men and women, that patronize the merchants of and pay taxes in their respective cities. A Chinaman is declared to be an undesirable citizen by our government, and yet he is accepted to the extent of patronage by many of our people. This is probably due to thoughtlessness.

Laundries like other industries, have been compelled to revise prices upward in the past few years and they like others have been accused of profiteering. Taking a collar for instance the current price is 4c for laundering as compared to 2 1/2c in pre-war times. We offer no apology for this advance. Beginning with our coal bin and going right through our costs of payroll, supplies and maintenance we find an advance to us of from 100 to 400 per cent. Incidentally I might mention that the collar from the time it is called for until it is delivered passes through 22 different operations in the process of laundering and that the cost of collection and delivery of every bundle is figured at 15c per bundle, so it can be seen that even at 4 cents per collar the laundry is not getting over rich on the 3 collars a week customer. I have been trying to bring this paper to a close, but because the industry of which I am speaking is so little understood and generally misrepresented and is so worthy of championship that I have found it difficult to stop putting down thoughts that come upon me that I feel should be expressed. The only way I can conclude is to chop it off unceremoniously and suddenly as I do now after thanking you for the courtesy of your attention.

TARIFF ON OIL.

Congress Should Have a Thought For the Consumer.

Just as the consuming public is about to realize a little relief from the high prices of gas oil, a petroleum distillate largely used in the manufacture of artificial gas, along comes a tariff-tinkering proposition at Washington which threatens to destroy that relief.

The ways and means committee of the House of Representatives on June 23 decided to place a tariff on crude petroleum brought into this country at the rate of thirty-five cents per barrel and on fuel oil at the rate of twenty-five cents per barrel.

The significance of this proposition is that while it will "protect" oil producers within the borders of our land from outside competition in oil, it will also have the effect of stiffening prices for American crude and fuel oils.

Why not allow the public to enjoy the respite from high prices for awhile?

It is not asking too much, even from strictly consistent advocates of high tariff schedules, to thus plead for the consumer occasionally. The "market" may need protection but so do the public who use the product.

Locally speaking, the quarter million people in Poughkeepsie, Hudson, Kingston, Newburgh and contiguous territory who are served by the gas-making public utility corporation known as the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company and Kingston Gas & Electric Company will be taxed indirectly for the benefit of the American oil men; the government will collect the customs duty of thirty-five or twenty-five cents on every forty-two gallons of oil imported under the new tariff schedule, but the consumer will have to pay it eventually in the higher price he will be charged by the home producers of oil.

It works that way, and only that way. At the present moment Poughkeepsie is promised a reduction in the price of manufactured gas—promised because the price of the gas oil used here has fallen nearly one-half in the open market lately, leading the local corporation to order giant tanks to hold the reduced priced oil to the amount of 700,000 gallons, the difference in cost production to be passed on to the consumer.

Congress should think occasionally about the tax-burdened, price-ridden citizen who has to pay the bills.

Poughkeepsie Star.

For Kingston this tariff would mean from $4,000 to $5,000 per year increased cost.

NAVY GETS ITS CHANCE FRIDAY

Promises To Put German Destroyers Under Water In Fraction Of Time It Took Army Bombers To Do It Wednesday.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

On Board U. S. S. Henderson, on The Virginia Capes, July 14.—The navy is on a keen edge today, guns are being carefully hoisted and there is much practice sighting in progress, as preparations are being made for an attack by vessels of the Atlantic fleet on two ex-German destroyers tomorrow.

Target practice in the navy is always cause for excitement, but the target practice tomorrow offers the navy an opportunity to vie with the army.

Army fliers sunk the ex-German destroyer G-102 yesterday, but it took more than 30 bombs and over an hour of firing to turn the trick. The navy gunners are out to show that gunfire from surface craft can sink similar craft in far less time and with fewer shots.

Destroyer division 36 of the Atlantic fleet has been selected to carry the honors of the navy in this effort to demonstrate the relative merits of air and surface attacks, but the whole fleet is keyed up to a high pitch today and the gunners on the little destroyers are the envy of every man on the big "battle wagons."

The show put on by the army yesterday has demonstrated that aerial attacks are a menace to surface craft and that aeroplanes can sink surface vessels, but the naval officers still hold their tongue in their check and ask "What would the gunners on that destroyer have been doing during that attack of more than an hour?"

Even the navy is willing to concede that the army fliers under General Mitchell showed good marksmanship, that in order to be damaging, aerial bombing must be done with heavy planes carrying heavy bombs, for seventeen hits registered by small bombs during the attack yesterday failed to put the destroyer out of commission. The little sea wasp was not long in finding the bottom, however, after a 300 pound bomb hit her on the water line.

The army has set up a mark for the naval gunners to shoot at and they promise to have the two destroyers S-132 and V-43 under the waves within a few minutes after the attack tomorrow, and tomorrow is "der tag" for the navy.

THE OFFICE CAT

Step, Look and Listen.
I do not fear a siren
With a mass of midnight hair,
With wild dropping eyelids
And a blasé worldly air;
But, Oh, I cross my fingers
And I breathe a little prayer
When I meet a blond-haired catie
With a blue-eyed baby stare.

You reach a man's heart through his stomach, a woman's through her pocketbook.
Now, Jimmie,
Jimmie—Mummy, it says in this book that a baby fed on elephant's milk gained twenty pounds in one day.
Mother—Nonsense, Jimmie. Does it say whose baby it was?
Jimmie—The elephant's.

A Very Attractive Home or Calling Gown.

Combining Waist 3486 and Skirt 3381. The waist is cut in 6 sizes: 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34 inches bust measure. The skirt in 6 sizes: 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34 inches waist measure. The width of the skirt at lower edge is 1 1/2 yards.

Blue or brown duvetyne or chiffon broadcloth would be suitable for this model. Embroidery in dull colors or braid could supply the trimming. To make the dress for a medium size will require 9 yards of 38 inch material.

PESKY BED BUGS

Bedbugs lay an average of seven eggs per day. Under favorable conditions they hatch in five days of which two-thirds are females. They mature in four weeks. How many bedbugs would you have in a year if you left one female or egg unmolested for one year? To rid the pesky bedbug, you can readily see how necessary it is to use a preparation that will kill the eggs as well as the live ones. P. D. Q. has been demonstrated by the leading Hospitals, Hotels and Railroad Companies that the safest and most economical way to stop future generations of bedbugs, roaches, fleas and ants is to use the new discovery "Pesky Devils".

Quietus "P. D. Q." A 3oz package of P. D. Q. makes a quart, enough to kill a million bedbugs, roaches, fleas and crickets and at the same time destroy their eggs. Impossible for them to exist when P. D. Q. is properly used. Free, patent applied in every package to get the pesky devils in the hard-to-get-at places and save the juice. Special Hospital and Hotel size $2.50—makes five gallons of P. D. Q.—your druggist has it or can get it for you, or sent prepaid upon receipt of price by the Owl Chemical Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Success of P. D. Q. has caused imitations; genuine P. D. Q. is never peddled.

HOME-SEEKERS' SERVICE EXPANDS

Downtown Savings and Loan Association Now Has Assets of Over Half Million Dollars—This Month Completes 32nd Year of Existence and New Shares Will Be Offered August 1.

The Home-Seekers' Co-Operative Savings & Loan Association of the City of Kingston, N. Y., has passed the half million mark. On July 1st their assets were $523,757.39. Since the first of the year the association has opened two series of shares, the regular semi-annual series in February and a special series in connection with the Chamber of Commerce drive in April. These two series comprise over 3,600 shares, making a total of considerably over 10,000 shares outstanding.

The "Home-Seekers" will complete its thirty-second year of successful operation this month. Twenty-one series of its shares have already matured and hundreds of homes in this city and vicinity have been bought and paid for through the assistance of this association.

Like all other co-operative savings and loan associations, the "Home-Seekers" is subject to the same regulation and supervision by the State Banking Department as savings banks, and almost all its funds are invested in first mortgages on dwelling properties. It is purely co-operative, all profits being returned to the members in the form of dividends, except a small percentage which is set aside as a guarantee fund.

Co-operative savings and loan associations exist for two purposes. First, as a medium for saving money, and second to furnish funds to its members for the purchase or building of homes. The strong feature of these institutions as a medium for saving money is the enforced regularity in making deposits, and the penalty incurred if deposits are not made promptly.

If a member can furnish one-quarter of the purchase price of a property he wishes to build or buy, the association will loan him the other three-quarters and the loan will be extinguished in twelve years or less by monthly payments about equal to the rental value of the property, the value of the property for such loan being fixed by the association's appraisers.

A person who wishes to acquire a home, but lacks the necessary one-quarter of the purchase price, can soon accumulate the amount by subscribing for shares in the association. Subscriptions may be for any number of shares from one up. On each share $1.00 must be deposited every month. No lapses are permitted and deposits are subject to a fine if not made when due. Withdrawals are permitted at any time, but deposits must be continued until the shares mature, that is, reach a value of $200.00 each, or the Association retains 20 per cent of the dividends. The "Home-Seekers" dividends have been at the rate of 6 per cent for a number of years.

Subscriptions for shares in the next series, which opens on Monday, August 1, will be received at the office of the association, No. 3 East Strand, any time during business hours. An entrance fee of 25 cents must be paid on each share.

PENNEY'S VERSION

Of Fracas He Had With Wallace Foster at Rhinebeck.

Editor, The Freeman: Several articles have recently appeared in your paper with reference to an assault alleged to have been committed by me upon Wallace Foster of the Beekman Arms Hotel, Rhinebeck. The articles which you published were taken from the Rhinebeck paper and do not set forth the truth of the affair. Therefore I am writing this note of explanation which I ask that you kindly publish in your paper.

My wife and myself had been in the employ of Mr. Foster for some time previous to June 3, on which date I left Mr. Foster's employ. My wife remained as an employee of the hotel and on Sunday evening, June 5, I went to the hotel for the purpose of seeing my wife and also to take away my clothing which I had left in my room. When I arrived at the hotel my wife was in the dining room and she told me to go up to her room and wait for her to come to pack my clothing. I went up stairs and my wife soon came to her room and was packing my clothing when Mr. Foster opened the door and asked if I was there. He was told that I was, and he immediately entered the room and ordered me from the place. I told him that I would go as soon as my clothing was packed but he said "You will go now," and he grabbed me and started toward the door. I tried to reason with him but he insisted that I go immediately and he probably tried to frighten me with a line of language which should only be used by a real strong man. I resisted his efforts and soon we were both on the floor in the hall. When we were in the hall a male relative of Mr. Foster joined the fray and he jumped upon me while Foster and I were on the floor. Then I saw that I was in a real fight and I decided to do my best. For the next few seconds Mr. Foster in some way fell down stairs and his assistant was out of the fight for good. I was arrested and compelled to put up cash bail. I retained Mr. Flanagan of Kingston to look after my case and he and my wife and myself went to Rhinebeck for the purpose of trying the case. The withdrawal of the charge was suggested by Mr. Foster and not by me. I believe that I was within my rights and I think that Mr. Foster believed that way also for when I appeared with my attorney, Foster was ready to let everything drop.

The article stated that I entered the building by climbing the fire escape. That is false. I went into the hotel and up the stairway and several persons in the dining room saw me there.

I have no ill feeling toward Mr. Foster but I believe that if the papers print anything of the affair it should be the truth.

I was in France with the American Expeditionary Forces and took part in the fighting at Chateau Thierry and Belleau Wood and at other important places along the front. I was injured and gassed at the front. I came out of the Rhinebeck battle without any serious trouble and I am very sorry that Mr. Foster was not so fortunate.

Trusting that you will give this explanation a place in your valuable paper, I am, sir, very respectfully,

THEODORE PENNEY.

WHO IS GUILTY?

Corporation Counsel Brimmer's denial that he drafted Kingston's new notorious gag-law is that he had any information of it until he read it in the newspaper. Some interesting questions. Under the city charter the corporation counsel is the legal adviser of the city. Custom for many years decreed that whenever a resolution was introduced in the common council by any alderman which required an ordinance to enforce it, the resolution was referred to the corporation counsel who was instructed to prepare the ordinance. Was ever an ordinance already prepared by outside sources was introduced by an alderman, the ordinance was referred to the corporation counsel to examine and report back to the council. In the case of the gag-law, Mayor Canfield presented the ordinance to the council, whereupon Alderman Boosa of the Second Ward moved its adoption. By what authority does the mayor introduce ordinances in the common council? Has he not usurped our rights enough in this respect without requiring an ordinance where citizens are prohibited from meeting in public streets and parks to protest against our abandonment of representative government? Beginning Saturday, we cannot hold such a meeting "without a written permit from the mayor."

THE MERIDEN GAG-LAW.

Courts in some places do not look with complacency on the "regulatory legislation" referred to by Mayor Canfield in defending his gag-law for Kingston. In adopting a gag-law for the city of Meriden, Conn., its city council either placed greater confidence in the chief of police than in the mayor, or else believed the chief was more likely to remain in office, or else the mayor of Meriden was more modest than Mayor Canfield. Anyway, an ordinance was adopted providing that no person or persons should use the public streets, parks, etc., for the purpose of delivering orations or making speeches without obtaining a permit from the chief of police.

A conviction was obtained for a violation of Meriden's gag-law and the defendant, McAllister Coleman, appealed to the Supreme Court of Errors of Connecticut. Judge Beach, writing the opinion of that court, states that such an ordinance is not necessarily violative of the right of free speech; but since the one under consideration confers on the chief of police the right to arbitrarily determine in advance who may exercise the privilege or what subjects may be discussed, or what sentiments discussed, it is unconstitutional.

"Even in the absence of Connecticut precedent," he writes, "we could be unwilling to leave the constitutional liberties of a citizen to be defined and protected by the good impulses of a subordinate official entrusted with unlimited discretion. It is for no other reason than that the exercise of discretion cannot be controlled by mandamus. Nor should the constitutionality of a statute be made to depend upon the way in which it is finally administered by those who are charged with its execution. The only effective way of protecting the citizen against the abuse of unlimited discretion is to declare it to be an abuse of discretion to exercise it in any manner of unlimited discretion to control the exercise of privileges which all citizens have a common right to enjoy on equal terms."

Notwithstanding such judicial condemnation, Mayor Canfield and the aldermen state that "No person shall be allowed to deliver a speech or address in any public place or at any public gathering or assembly within the city without a written permit from the mayor or his agent, on the exercise of his discretionary power to refuse such permit and who shall have authority to impose such terms and conditions as he may deem proper as to such permit as to what shall be acceptable for the public peace and order."

POCH'S CLEAR VISION.

The point of interest and the one applied by General Poch in his decision of the status of the Allies in the World War were denied to the Allies. It is said, from his exhaustive study of the movements of Napoleon. In an article which he contributed to the Napoleon supplement of the London Times, General Poch describes the great military leader of a century ago as "beyond compare the military genius of modern times." Such a tribute to the greatest soldier of the nineteenth century by the greatest soldier of the twentieth, both French, will be widely regarded as just, but will fail to excite keen interest because of its very general acceptance as a matter of course. Much more notable and interesting is General Poch's explanation of the final disasters overtaking the great Napoleon, as follows: "He forgot that a man can not be God; that above the individual there is a nation; that above men there is the moral law, and that war is not the highest goal, since above war there is peace."

In other words, war merely for war's sake or an aggressive imperialism's sake must ultimately fail because its aim is purely selfish and no gain to mankind is involved. This view not only reveals Marshal Poch's own great capacity for leadership but is an interesting recognition of the fact that the World War was fundamentally a war for civilization. Poch's impressive words are worth the attention not only of great military leaders but responsible statesmen the world over.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Dept. of this paper. Look for answer in this column. Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Do any male birds relieve the female mates during the incubation periods?
2. Is mosswood a genuine name for a tree?

3. Why do the hop vine and the bean vine invariably climb in opposite curves?
Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes

Answers to Previous Questions.
1. Why should cut flowers be wrapped and kept from air in transportation?
Because their cells are full of moisture and they constantly give it off, to be evaporated by the air. The drier and warmer the air, or the more it is in motion, the more rapid is this evaporation, so that the plant is quickly drained. Excluding the air retards this loss of moisture and helps keep the flowers fresh until they can be artificially supplied with water.

2. Why does a rattlesnake rattle at all?
Even snake specialists do not agree on this point. It is accounted for by some as being the audible signal given during the breeding season to attract a mate. Others say the function of the rattle is to decoy prey within reach of the snake's fangs. It is not a warning to keep intruders away, though naturally humans have learned to interpret the rattle as a warning.

3. Why do owls see by night instead of by day?
Because most owls feed at night, preying on creatures active at night. Nature fits them with eyes useful in their way of living. Owls' eyes are large, do not roll freely, have an iris that contracts and expands, and a narrow oval pupil. The eye has an inner lid, bleating membrane that is drawn up by day to shield the eye. Some owls see by day, as the snowy and hawk-owls living far north, where all summer there is practically no darkness.

JURY EASY WHEN EVIDENCE IS WET

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 14.—One kind of jury duty became popular here today. Justice Borst, in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court permitted juries to smell and taste wet evidence in the numerous bootlegging cases now on trial. In one instance, the jury was out an hour and a half, came in all smiles and acquitted the defendant.

Seventy indictments have been returned so far in the extraordinary session which opened yesterday. Thirty were dismissed. This is the largest percentage of indictments in liquor cases returned by a grand jury since enactment of the state enforcement law.

Live Up to Their Name.

The French invented the automobile, and they also invented the name. It is derived from the Greek "autos" self, and the French "mobile" movable. Perhaps it is because of its name that some automobiles are so temperamental. One can't very well call a thing uncertain and unchangeable and expect it to act in any other manner.

But when you start building you put up a little house like this. It's frightfully disappointing. Why do you do it?" "Words," said the author, "are cheaper than stones."

Fifty Years of Life.

A French statistician has been dabbling with figures to find out just what man does with that precious thing called time. He concludes that at the age of fifty years the average man has slept 6,000 days, worked 6,500, walked 800, amused himself 4,000, spent 1,500 eating, and has been ill 500 days.

(Children—15c)GRAND GORGE
STATION ROBBEDTwo of Five Men Arrested For Crime Are Held For Grand Jury—
Kingston Youth Freed.

Grand Gorge, July 14.—During the night the Grand Gorge station of the Ulster and Delaware Railroad was broken into and the money drawers rifled. Through quick action on the part of Sergeant J. F. Scanlon, assisted by Officers Crowe, Martin and Keenan of the Board of Water Supply Police, the suspects were apprehended on the railroad tracks at South Gilboa. They were brought back to Grand Gorge where they were given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Cronk.

The names given by the prisoners were: James J. Halloran, age 22, 145 East 60 street, New York city; James C. Hardman, age 19, 153 Elm street, Newark, N. J.; William Reilly, age 18, 86 Henry street, Kingston, N. Y.; Fred Brown, age 21, 97 York avenue, Newark, N. J.; Patrick Hynes, age 20, 235 Elm street, Newark, N. J.

Justice Cronk held Halloran and Hardman for the grand jury and released Reilly, Brown and Hynes, there being no evidence that they were connected with the crime.

Young Reilly left here about a week ago to work on a state road job near Grand Gorge. He bears a good reputation and was probably arrested merely because found in company with the others.

NONE HURT IN
TERRIFIC SMASHTwo Girls Thrown Out When O'Neil's
Car Hit Freer's Quickly Recovered
—Freer's Car Pushed Against New
Cedar Pole Over Foot Thick Hard
Enough to Break It.

A five passenger Oldsmobile, driven by Edward O'Neil of 37 Hurley avenue, in attempting to avoid striking a five-passenger Jeffrey car driven by DeWitt Freer of New Salem at the corner of Maiden Lane and Fair street about seven o'clock Wednesday evening, rammed the Jeffrey car with such force that the latter was thrown against a thirteen-inch pole of the Kingston Gas &amp; Electric Company which was broken two feet above the ground, while that part of the pole below the ground was forced through eight inches of earth against the sidewalk, displacing a flagstone. O'Neil says he was traveling at a rate of not over fifteen miles an hour. The Jeffrey car was wrecked.

The Oldsmobile, which was the cause of the damage, was proceeding along Maiden Lane toward Clinton avenue, while the Jeffrey was going along Fair street toward the business section. When O'Neil saw the Freer car, which had the right of way, he swung sharp into Fair street in the same direction in which that car was going. The two cars locked wheels, but the velocity of the O'Neil car was so great that it forced the Freer car against the electric light pole which stands on the corner.

Two young women, who were in the Freer car, were thrown out. One landed against the iron fence which surrounds the corner property, which for many years was occupied by the late Augustus Sahler. The other young woman was thrown out of the opposite side of the car to the roadway. Both were stunned and to the neighbors who first reached the scene they appeared to be dead. The Freer car was pushed against the pole of the house of Willis S. Johnson, No. 83 Maiden Lane, but aside from shocks and a severe shake-up they appeared to be unharmed and an hour afterward were able to leave in company with Mr. Freer and his father, Ralph Freer.

The Freer car was wrecked. The wheels were broken and the front of the car dug in the Willite pavement several inches and loosened the Willite and macadam for a distance of a foot. The O'Neil car was somewhat damaged but the damage was not as great as to the other car.

The pole, which was broken at the point where it was rammed by the Freer car, was of cedar and placed in position by the Kingston Gas and Electric Company about two months ago. The various guy-wires and electric wires held the top steady and the fact that the lower part of the pole was forced against an iron trolley pole, saved it from giving way and allowing the wires to drop to the street.

The crash of the collision and breaking of the pole could be heard for a block and neighbors rushed to the assistance of the two young women. A large crowd collected from the uptown section and the crowd was quickly augmented by automobilists who blocked both streets for several minutes. The O'Neil car was removed by the wrecker from the Stuyvesant Garage, and the Freer car by the wrecker from Doc Smith's garage. It was more than an hour before both cars were removed and the crowd dispersed.

While the crowd in the street was dense, George C. Wolven visited the scene of the accident in his car, which he proceeded to drive through the crowd, cutting a short corner from Fair street into Maiden Lane, passing within two feet of the wrecked Jeffrey car and forcing the crowd from around the car to the sidewalk. Mr. Wolven laughed pleasantly as members of the crowd shouted at him to know what he was doing.

Mayor Canfield, who lives in the second house from Maiden Lane, on Fair street, on the same side of the street where the accident occurred, was on the scene just after the accident happened but did not remain long.

HAYNES PLANS
REAL DRY U. S.By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, July 14.—Roy Haynes, prohibition commissioner, after a month in office, prophesied today that the United States will be a literal Sahara under a plan he has evolved to center all responsibility for enforcement in state directors.

Commissioner Haynes admitted that the task before him is a "bale of a job," but he believed he is equal to it, and through greater efficiency, which he aims to establish, he predicted that all the liquor "leaks" will be closed, that liquor lawlessness will gradually subside and that public sentiment will become more strongly crystallized in favor of rigid enforcement.

Reminded of the prediction of his predecessor that the United States would not be dry for 100 years, Haynes said that in the future, enforcement work would not be characterized by the "sad mistakes" made in the first year of the prohibition experiment, and that he is confident of stamping out the illegal liquor traffic.

By having politics from his organization, Haynes expects to inject greater efficiency. Politics, he said, now is delaying his program through the wrangling over aspirants for the big job. He is determined to clear the air of this difficulty by filling vacancies at once, so that enforcement work in all states can go forward.

"Good men will fill these jobs, whether Democrat or Republican," said Haynes. "Some of the crack-jacks of the organization are Democrats. These men will not be replaced, merely to give the jobs to Republicans, our preference is for Republicans when other things are equal, but efficiency is my motto, and efficiency must be established, to bring order out of chaos."

Commissioner Haynes said that the principal handicap is inadequate funds to check liquor violations. Haynes said since taking office he has brought his force of dry agents and headquarters up to a total of about 2,000 men, only slightly below the allotted number.

NAVY GETS ITS CHANCE FRIDAY

Promises To Put German Destroyers Under Water In Practice Of Time It Took Army Bombers To Do It Wednesday.

By Telephone To The Freeman.
On Board U. S. S. Henderson, off The Virginia Capes, July 14.—The navy is on a keen edge today, guns are being carefully hoisted and there is much practice sighting in progress, as preparations are being made for an attack by vessels of the Atlantic fleet on two ex-German destroyers tomorrow.

Target practice in the navy is always cause for excitement, but the target practice tomorrow offers the navy an opportunity to vie with the army.

Army fliers sunk the ex-German destroyer G-102 yesterday, but it took more than 80 bombs and over an hour of firing to turn the trick. The navy gunners are out to show that gunfire from surface craft can sink similar craft in far less time and with fewer shots.

Destroyer division 36 of the Atlantic fleet has been selected to carry the honors of the navy in this effort to demonstrate the relative merits of air and surface attacks, but the whole fleet is keyed up to a high pitch today and the gunners on the little destroyers are the envy of every man on the big "battle wagons."

The show put on by the army yesterday has demonstrated that aerial attacks are a menace to surface craft and that aeroplanes can sink surface vessels, but the naval officers still hold their tongue in their check and ask "What would the gunners on that destroyer have been doing during that attack of more than an hour?"

Even the navy is willing to concede that the army fliers under General Mitchell showed good marksmanship. They are conceded, however, that in order to be convincing, aerial bombing must be done with heavy planes carrying heavy bombs, for seventeen hits registered by small bombs during the attack yesterday failed to put the destroyer out of commission. The little sea wasp was not long in finding the bottom, however, after a 300 pound bomb hit her on the water line.

The army has set up a mark for the naval gunners to shoot at and they promise to have the two destroyers S-132 and V-43 under the waves within a few minutes after the attack tomorrow, and tomorrow is "her day" for the navy.

RUTH ON WAY
TO NEW RECORD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, July 14.—Babe Ruth will shatter his 1920 record of 54 home runs.

The Sultan of Sluggers needs but 21 more homers to overshoot his world's record mark of last year and unless some unforeseen happenings interfere he should wind up the summer with close to 60 circuit swats to his credit.

Ruth is ten days ahead of his 1920 record today. His total of 34 homers to date gives him more than a week's leeway to beat his grand total of 54 and he shows no signs of letting up. If anything Ruth is hitting better now than he did a month ago. And he is still hitting all kinds of pitching. Right or left handers—it makes no difference—he keeps on slamming them over the fence. They all seem to look alike to him. There isn't a park in the league in which Ruth has not taken the range of the fences already this season, which is something of a record in itself as the schedule is only a little more than half played out.

Prior to the opening of the season Ruth modestly admitted that he hoped and expected to smash his record. When asked how far he expected to surpass it he shrugged and intimated that he would like to reach the 75 mark.

That Ruth or any other player will ever amass a total of 75 home runs in a single season is quite doubtful. To accomplish this a player would have to average a home every other game through the schedule of 154. Ruth, at his present clip, will surely pass 54, however, and there are several things in his favor. The Yanks have 34 more games to play at the Polo grounds alone. This is something of a coincidence—34 homers to date and 34 more games or approximately 136 more chances to hammer the globe over the wall in his own backyard—in the park that was made to order for him. In addition to this the Big Babe will have plenty of chances to batter down fences in every other park in the league before the schedule is played out. So the betting is all in his favor.

CARPENTER SAILS.

Will Return In Fall Probably To Box Gibbons.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, July 14.—Georges Carpentier and Francois Descamps said good-bye to the United States for a short time when the liner La Savoie sailed for Havre today. The French boxer and his manager are bound for Paris though they have promised Promoter Tex Rickard that they will return in September to box for him in the fall against any American light heavyweight he selects. Tommy Gibbons, the St. Paul sensation, will probably be Rickard's choice.

As Georges, the defeated idol of France departed, Captain Devereux, Milburn and Louis Stoddard of the victorious American polo team, just arrived from England with the international cup, were receiving congratulations from their friends. Milburn said today that he does not believe the British will challenge for the cup for several years at least.

A COOL CASE

For a Hot Night Tried Before Judge Schirick Wednesday.

Wednesday evening while the thermometer in the city court room at the city hall registered 90 or more degrees Judge Schirick tried a cool case, that is cool in the subject matter, and cooling to think about while it was hot. In other words it was the ice case brought by Louis Bregman against Charles Wierbach, who has a candy factory in this city.

The action was brought by Mr. Bregman to recover $102.74 from Mr. Wierbach for the ice in the Bregman ice house. Mr. Bregman claimed that Mr. Wierbach had contracted with him to fill the ice house which is on Hasbrouck avenue.

Mr. Wierbach entered a general denial. Frank W. Brooks appeared for Mr. Bregman, and V. B. Van Wageningen for Mr. Wierbach. At the close of the testimony Judge Schirick reserved decision.

On Friday, July 15, Prof. Errera will sail on the Mauretania, for England, where he will meet his only sister and her husband who have come on there from their home in Alexandria, Egypt. This is the first in eight years that the professor has seen his sister and he expects to spend about two months accompanying her and her husband in touring France, Belgium and Holland. Professor Errera will resume his teaching at his home in this city about the first of September. Madame Errera did not accompany her husband, having taken her vacation in the winter when she visited South America, singing for the big Red Cross concerts there.

Flag Day Observed Since 1829.

Flag day, June 14, is the anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes by the continental congress in 1777. The day has been more or less observed since 1880. In that year George Bloch, a New York teacher, commemorated the birth of the flag with special patriotic exercises by his kindergarten pupils. Patriotic societies took up the observance and Flag day has become well established.

HOME-SEEKERS' SERVICE EXPANDS

Downtown Savings and Loan Association Now Has Assets of Over Half Million Dollars—This Month Completes 25th Year of Existence and New Shares Will Be Offered August 1.

The Home-Seekers' Co-Operative Savings & Loan Association of the City of Kingston, N. Y., has passed the half million mark. On July 1st their assets were $523,757.38. Since the first of the year the association has opened two series of shares, the regular semi-annual series in February and a special series in connection with the Chamber of Commerce drive in April. These two series comprise over 3,400 shares, making a total of considerably over 10,000 shares outstanding.

The "Home-Seekers" will complete its thirty-second year of successful operation this month. Twenty-one series of its shares have already matured and hundreds of homes in this city and vicinity have been bought and paid for through the assistance of this association.

Like all other co-operative savings and loan associations, the "Home-Seekers" is subject to the same regulation and supervision by the State Banking Department as savings banks, and almost all its funds are invested in first mortgages on dwelling properties. It is purely co-operative, all profits being returned to the members in the form of dividends, except a small percentage which is set aside as a guarantee fund.

Co-operative savings and loan associations exist for two purposes. First, as a medium for saving money, and second to furnish funds to its members for the purchase or building of homes. The strong feature of these institutions as a medium for saving money is the enforced regularity in making deposits, and the penalty incurred if deposits are not made promptly.

If a member can furnish one-quarter of the purchase price of a property he wishes to build or buy, the association will loan him the other three-quarters and the loan will be extinguished in twelve years or less by monthly payments about equal to the rental value of the property, the value of the property for such loan being fixed by the association's appraisers.

A person who wishes to acquire a home, but lacks the necessary one-quarter of the purchase price, can soon accumulate the amount by subscribing for shares in the association. Subscriptions may be for any number of shares from one up. On each share $1.00 must be deposited every month. No lapses are permitted and deposits are subject to a fine if not made when due. Withdrawals are permitted at any time, but deposits must be continued until the shares mature, that is, reach a value of $200.00 each, or the Association retains 20 per cent of the dividends. The "Home-Seekers" dividends have been at the rate of 6 per cent for a number of years.

Subscriptions for shares in the next series, which opens on Monday, August 1, will be received at the office of the association, No. 3 East Strand, any time during business hours. An entrance fee of 25 cents must be paid on each share.

PENNEY'S VERSION

Of Fracas He Had With Wallace Foster at Rhinebeck.

Editor, The Freeman:

Several articles have recently appeared in your paper with reference to an assault alleged to have been committed by me upon Wallace Foster of the Beekman Arms Hotel, Rhinebeck. The articles which you published were taken from the Rhinebeck paper and do not set forth the truth of the affair. Therefore I am writing this note of explanation which I ask that you kindly publish in your paper.

My wife and myself had been in the employ of Mr. Foster for some time previous to June 3, on which date I left Mr. Foster's employ. My wife remained as an employee of the hotel and on Sunday evening, June 5, I went to the hotel for the purpose of seeing my wife and also to take away my clothing which I had left in my room. When I arrived at the hotel my wife was in the dining room and she told me to go up to her room and wait for her to come to pack my clothing. I went up stairs and my wife soon came to her room and was packing my clothing when Mr. Foster opened the door and asked if I was there. He was told that I was, and he immediately entered the room and ordered me from the place. I told him that I would go as soon as my clothing was packed but he said "You will not go now," and he grabbed me and started toward the door. I tried to reason with him but he insisted that I go immediately and he probably tried to frighten me with a line of language which should only be used by a real strong man. I resisted his efforts and soon we were both on the floor in the hall. When we were in the hall a male relative of Mr. Foster joined the fray and he jumped upon me while Foster and I were on the floor. Then I saw that I was in a real fight and I decided to do my best. For the next few seconds Mr. Foster and his assistant were down stairs and his assistant was out of the fight for good. I was around and compelled to get up each side. I returned Mr. Finckman of Kingston to look after my case and he and my wife and myself went to Rhinebeck for the purpose of trying the case. The withdrawal of the charge was suggested by Mr. Foster and not by me. I believe that I was within my rights and I think that Mr. Foster believed that was also for when I appeared with my attorney, Foster was ready to let everything drop.

The article stated that I entered the building in (climbed the fire escape). That is false. I went into the hotel and up the stairs and several persons on the dining room were there.

RUTH ON WAY
TO NEW RECORD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 14.—Babe Ruth will shatter his 1920 record of 54 home runs.

The Sultan of Sluggers needs but 21 more homers to overthrow his world's record mark of last year and unless some unforeseen happenings interfere he should wind up the summer with close to 60 circuit swats to his credit.

Ruth is ten days ahead of his 1920 record today. His total of 34 homers to date gives him more than a week's leeway to beat his grand total of 54 and he shows no signs of letting up. If anything Ruth is hitting better now than he did a month ago. And he is still hitting all kinds of pitches. Right or left handed—he makes no difference—he keeps on slamming them over the fences. They all seem to look alike to him. There isn't a park in the league in which Ruth has not taken the range of the fences already this season, which is something of a record in itself as the schedule is only a little more than half played out.

Prior to the opening of the season Ruth modestly admitted that he hoped and expected to smash his record. When asked how far he expected to surpass it he shrugged and intimated that he would like to reach the 75 mark.

That Ruth or any other player will ever amass a total of 75 home runs in a single season is quite doubtful. To accomplish this a player would have to average a home every other game through the schedule of 154.

Ruth, at his present clip, will surely pass 54, however, and there are several things in his favor. The Yanks have 34 more games to play at the Polo grounds alone. This is something of a coincidence—34 homers to date and 34 more games or approximately 136 more chances to hammer the globe over the wall in his own backyard—in the park that was made to order for him. In addition to this the Big Babe will have plenty of chances to batter down fences in every other park in the league before the schedule is played out. So the betting is all in his favor.

CARPENTIER SAILS.

Will Return in Fall Probably To Box Gibbons.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, July 14.—George Carpenter and Francois Descamps said good-bye to the United States for a short time when the liner La Savoie sailed for Havre today. The French boxer and his manager are bound for Paris though they have promised Promoter Tex Rickard that they will return in September to box for him in the fall against an American light heavyweight he selects. Tommy Gibbons, the St. Paul sensation, will probably be Rickard's choice.

As Georges, the defeated idol of France departed, Captain Devereux Milburn and Louis Stoddard of the victorious American polo team, just arrived from England with the international cup, were receiving congratulations from their friends. Milburn said today that he does not believe the British will challenge for the cup for several years at least.

A COOL CASE

For a Hot Night Tried Before Judge Schirick Wednesday.

Wednesday evening while the thermometer in the city court room at the city hall registered 99 or more degrees Judge Schirick tried a cool case, that is cool in the subject matter, and cooling to think about while it was hot. In other words it was the ice case brought by Louis Bregman against Charles Wierbach, who has a candy factory in this city.

The action was brought by Mr. Bregman to recover $102.74 from Mr. Wierbach for the ice in the Bregman ice house. Mr. Bregman claimed that Mr. Wierbach had contracted with him to fill the ice house which is on Hasbrouck avenue.

Mr. Wierbach entered a general denial. Frank W. Brooks appeared for Mr. Bregman, and V. B. Van Wagoner for Mr. Wierbach. At the close of the testimony Judge Schirick reserved decision.

Prof. Errera Goes Ahead.

On Friday, July 15, Prof. Errera will sail for the Mauretania, for England, where he will meet his only sister and her husband who have come on there from their home in Alexandria, Egypt. This is the first in eight years that the professor has seen his sister and he expects to spend about two months accompanying her and her husband in touring France, Belgium and Holland. Professor Errera will resume his teaching at his home in this city about the first of September. Madame Errera did not accompany her husband, having taken her vacation in the winter when she visited South America, staying for the big Red Cross concerts there.

Flag Day Observed Since 1890.

Flag day, June 14, is the anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes by the continental Congress in 1777. The day has been more or less observed since 1890. In that year George B. Rhoads, a New York teacher, commemorated the birth of the flag with special patriotic exercises by his kindergarten pupils. Patriotic exercises took up the observance and Flag day has become well established.
